Introduction

Just Getting Started

Vanity Fair's support doesn't stop at bras. That's why they've partnered with comedian Leanne Morgan on her Just Getting Started Tour to support women across the country who are just getting started themselves. Patrons of the show had the opportunity to submit their story for the chance to win a $5,000 grand prize to help them when they're just getting started.

Tasked with capturing moments of unbridled hilarity and spreading the word of the contest, our team embarked on a mission to encapsulate the vibrant atmosphere, and genuine connection forged between Leanne Morgan, Vanity Fair and their audience. Through strategic planning, creative execution, and adept technical skills, we navigated the intricacies of a full brand activation, ultimately producing a visual narrative that not only complemented the live experience but also served as a unique branding opportunity for Vanity Fair Lingerie. This study illuminates the strategies, insights, and artistic choices that drove the success of this dynamic photography activation.

Through targeted marketing efforts, including eye-catching signage, engaging social media promotions, and on-site announcements, attendees were not only made aware of the giveaway opportunity but were also encouraged to actively participate. By meticulously crafting an enticing call-to-action, the activation successfully drove a high volume of entries, creating a dynamic and interactive experience for attendees.

02

CREATE BRANDED IMPRESSIONS

The photography activation leveraged the power of branding to create a lasting impression on guests. The visual consistency not only reinforced brand recognition but also established a cohesive and immersive environment that resonated with attendees. Additionally, the activation incorporated subtle yet impactful branding techniques, such as custom watermarks on the photographs, ensuring that every captured image carried a distinct brand signature. This seamless integration of branding elements resulted in a powerful and memorable visual experience that left a lasting impression on guests long after the event concluded.

PHOTOGRAPHY+ DATA CAPTURE

The integration of photography and data capture proved to be a pivotal component of the activation's success. In addition to capturing captivating moments, the activation utilized sophisticated technology to seamlessly collect valuable attendee data. Guests were prompted to provide their contact information in exchange for access to their personal gallery of professionally captured photographs. The activation demonstrated how the fusion of photography and data capture can be a potent tool for creating meaningful connections with attendees while simultaneously generating valuable insights for future engagements.
